ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The thanks of the authors are due to the following persons and institutions:

To the University of Madras, which gave one of them generous facilities to make a special study of Library Science and Library Organisation in Great Britain, for permission to publish the book which is based on the experience gained during the last seventeen years in organising the Madras University Library and teaching the subject to the students of the School of Library Science;

To the Madras Library Association for having taken up the publication of the book;

To Messrs. B. N. Banerjee, Y. R. Date, S. Govindarajulu Naidu, P. M. Joshi, Y. M. Mulay and Sant Ram Bhatia, for furnishing certain titles for inclusion in the book;

To the proprietor of the Madras Law Journal Press for the efficient, expeditious and obliging way in which the printing was carried out.

PREFACE

BY THE MADRAS LIBRARY ASSOCIATION

With the object of spreading the essential ideas of the Library Movement and of directing thought towards the creation of a library service suited to our country, in 1929 the Madras Library Association inaugurated its Publication Series. The first volume, The library movement, was by Divers Hands. The next seven volumes were all by S. R. Ranganathan. As their titles show they dealt with the technical and practical aspects of library work: The five laws of library science, 1931; Colon classification, 1933; Classified catalogue code, 1934; Library administration, 1935; Prolegomena to library classification, 1937; Theory of library catalogue, 1938; Colon classification, second revised edition, 1939. The ninth volume was by S. R. Ranganathan and C. Sundaram and was entitled Reference service and bibliography, Volume I, Theory, 1940. All these volumes have circulated well both in India and abroad.

As another instalment of this Publication Series, the Association now publishes the second volume of Reference service and bibliography which is a bibliography of reference books and bibliographies, the manuscript of which Messrs.

PREFACE

S. R. Ranganathan and K. M. Sivaraman have been good enough to place at its disposal.

The Association hopes that this volume will circulate as widely as its predecessors and that it will help libraries in India and elsewhere to organize their work in an efficient, scientific and serviceable way.

CHAPTER 51

INTRODUCTION AND SCHEDULE OF CLASSES

Parts 1-3 given in the first volume expounded the what, the why and the how of reference service, i.e. of establishing contact between the right reader and the right book in a personal way. It was established that it was reference service that was the effective operative part of the work of a library, that, in fact, every other work in a library should culminate in it and that it marked the one occasion that witnessed the coming together, in an intimate, integrated and creative manner, of the three elements constituting the trinity in a library viz. the readers, the staff, and the books.

Part 4, also given in the first volume, was devoted to an analysis, enumeration and description of a class of books on books, viz. bibliography, which are growing in number nowadays and form an indispensable tool in reference service of all kinds. So was chapter 22 of part 2 of that volume devoted to another class of books of equal value and of even more frequent use viz. reference books.

This part gives a bibliography of reference books and bibliographies. It is true that bibliographies also form a class of reference books; and yet they are explicitly mentioned on account of their special importance in reference service. In a sense they are reference books of second order as they do not give information qua information but only information on books.

511 What are Reference Books?

The term 'reference books' is, perhaps, second to none in library terminology in the elusiveness of its connotation. This fact is responsible for a good deal of haziness and inconsistency in the ground usually covered by books devoted to the subject.

INTRODUCTION

5111 A Functional Definition

An obvious definition is the functional one, viz. a reference book is a book that one looks up for specific information. The inadequacy of this definition to define reference books in a sharp manner can be realised if we remember that not infrequently one turns to compendious treatises for specific information. It may even happen that ordinary text books come in for help. One such instance was mentioned in the first volume*: Dudley Stamp's Indian empire V. 2. This feature is responsible for text books and compendious treatises being occasionally included in some books on reference books.

5112 Another Functional Definition

Another definition may be put in the following words: A reference book is a book that does not lend itself to continuous reading. This definition brings in not a little of the personal factor of the reader. A definition, so charged with the subjective element, is bound to lead one astray and in particular to flout the Canon of Consistency. As extreme cases mention may be made of individuals for whom even dictionaries are fit forms for continuous reading. Mention may be made for example of a professor with whom one of the authors came in contact in London. In his lectures on study methods he once expounded to the freshmen of the college how a dictionary could be read continuously and how he himself used to read it in that way. Another professor in Madras once mentioned with great pride how the arrival of a fresh second-hand catalogue would make him sit up late into the night reading it from cover page to cover page! In medieval India dictionaries and indexes, which are beyond doubt reference books, were learnt by heart with the implication that they were read and recited continuously.

Such considerations lead to the conclusion that functional definition must be given up and that the subject must be pursued along other lines.

5113 Influence of Classification

An examination of the existing books on reference books leads to the inference that the definition of reference books has been unconsciously influenced by what are known as Common Subdivisions in the terminology of library classification. That is perhaps the reason why some books tracing the history of a subject have been included among reference books. The fact that this is not done systematically and thoroughly points to the inference that such books are not reference books in the strict sense. In fact such history books appear often only in subjects which are poor in reference materials of the strict kind.

* P. 327.

INTRODUCTION

The prototype of common subdivisions has been what are known as form divisions. In fact, it is only in recent years that the form divisions of classification were rechristened common subdivisions in order to accommodate in the schedule certain other oft-recurring subdivisions which were not form divisions e.g. laboratories, museums, exhibitions, biographies, institutions and so on. An important class of form divisions is what is called periodicals. Perhaps this fact accounts for the periodicals in certain subjects being included among their reference books. Here again as in historical books, they have a tendency to appear only in the case of subjects which are poor in reference books of the strict kind. This fact would perhaps justify a similar inference that periodicals are not to be regarded as reference books in the strict sense.

5114 A diagnosis

An explanation of the incidence of such looseness in the concept of reference books may lie in the treatment received by reference books in the process of book-classification. All reference books except those of the generalia class receive a common subdivision symbol. But all books that receive any common subdivision symbol whatever are not reference books. Thus reference books form but a subclass of the books that receive common subdivision symbols in classification. Failure to recognise this fact in a conscious manner is the cause of vagueness and inconsistency in regard to the classes of books chosen for inclusion among reference books. At moments when non-rational intuition functions up, the choice happens to be correct; at other moments, any book which belongs to the wider class of common subdivision is unconsciously made to pass along with books of the narrower class of reference books.

INTRODUCTION

5115 Structural Definition

Perhaps the best way to avoid such involuntary lapses into inconsistencies of this kind is to define reference books neither by function nor with the aid of the terminology of the art of classification but in reference to the internal (as opposed to the physical) structure of the book. The peculiarity in the internal structure of a reference book is that it is not made up of continuous writing or exposition. We don't have sentences mounting to paragraphs, paragraphs to chapters and chapters getting woven into a single swelling exposition, in continuous pursuit of a single idea, simple or complex. On the contrary, we find an ensemble of disjointed entries of short, though varying lengths, the order of the entries being often decided not strictly by thought sequence but by the accident of the alphabetical or other principle of arrangement adopted. Or it may happen that the book consists mostly or entirely of formulæ, diagrams, statistics, figures, the enumeration of titles of books with or without annotation, etc.

The following structural varieties of reference books may be recognised among others. The statement shows against each type of structure an estimate of the number of classes of knowledge that have attracted reference books of that type.

These structural varieties are superimposable. Thus, we have bibliography of bibliographies, bibliography of tables, bibliography of atlases, guide to statistics, atlas of statistics and so on. A perusal of the alphabetical index which forms chapter 53 will give a fuller picture of all the possible varieties of reference books. For in that index are inserted in small capitals in the proper alphabetic places, structure headings made up of the names of the different types of reference books. Under each such heading are enumerated the classes of knowledge that have attracted reference books of the type in question.

512 Classification

Chapter 52 forms a classified or systematic enumeration of over 6,000 reference books. The scheme of classification by which the entries are arranged is the Colon Classification.* The Colon Scheme is a composite scheme which does not give ready made schedules of class numbers to derived composite classes of knowledge. It provides only schedules for fundamental constituent classes. The class numbers for the derived composite classes are to be constructed by assembling the relevant numbers chosen from the schedules of fundamental constituent classes in accordance with the rules laid down for the purpose.

5121 Main Classes

While the ultimate composite classes are brought to notice by the way in which the entries are featured throughout chapter 52, it may be of help to state here that the contents pages show at a glance the Main Classes of knowledge occurring in the lay-out of the scheme. It may also be of help if certain preliminary schedules of the scheme are extracted here for ready reference. The extracts mention only such divisions of the respective schedules as occur actually in the text of chapter 52. Common subdivisions and the geographical, the linguistic and the chronological divisions are the four schedules so extracted.

It would swell this introduction beyond proportion if we extract from the schedules of the sub-classes of the different main classes based on their various characteristics. It would similarly throw this introduction out of focus if we attempt to explain the various devices by which the characteristic divisions and the divisions of the preliminary schedules are to be assembled and woven into the class numbers of ultimate classes. We can only invite a reference to chapter 6 of the Colon classification which is entitled 'Eight devices'. A fuller and theoretical discussion of the subject and particularly of the considerations that contribute to the superiority of a composite scheme of classification will be found in another volume of this series.*

5125 Chronological Divisions

C	999 to 1 B.C.	K	1600 to 1699 A.D.
H	1300 to 1399 A.D.	L	1700 to 1799 A.D.
I	1400 to 1499 A.D.	M	1800 to 1899 A.D.
J	1500 to 1599 A.D.	N	1900 to 1999 A.D.

The decade and year are represented by adding after the letter representing the century the natural Arabic digits representing them e.g. 1941 is N41; 1564 is J64 and the decade 1930-1939 is N3.

513 Book Number

The Colon Classification individualises books by adding a Book Number after the Class Number. The Book Number represents, in order, the language of the book and the year of publication, and whenever needed it also indicates the serial number of a volume in a multi-volumed book, with the proviso that the language number is omitted if the language of the book is English. The language number is taken from the schedule of languages used in constructing Class Numbers; but the year number is got from the following schedule:

Before 1880	A	1910-1919	E
1880-1889	B	1920-1929	F
1890-1899	C	1930-1939	G
1900-1909	D	1940-1949	H

If more than one book of the same ultimate class is published in one year, digits 1, 2, 3 etc. are added after the year number in the case of the second, third, fourth, etc. books.

e.g. H1 means a book published in English language in 1941. H13 means the fourth book published in 1941 in the particular class. H13.4 means the fourth volume of the latter book. H13.4-2 means the second supplement to the last mentioned volume. If the book is in Sanskrit its book number will be 15H1 instead of H1 and so on.

When the date of publication is not known, an asterisk (*) is placed in the place of the year number.

INTRODUCTION

514 Cataloguing

The entries are made generally in accordance with the *Classified catalogue code** with the following modifications:

5141 Main Entry

(1) Wherever available, the name of the publisher in the case of books published in London, the name of the place of publication in the case of other books, the collation, the price and the series are given.

(2) The year of publication is given only in the case of books published before 1880, since the exact year is indicated by the book number in the case of the other books.

(3) Omission of puffs is not generally indicated.

(4) In the case of a title-entry, the descriptive word "First word" is omitted. The entry consists simply of the title portion, with the first word printed in small capitals.

(5) Descriptive words like Editor and Compiler are omitted.

5142 Added Entries

Even more drastic economy has been necessitated in the case of added entries, in order to reduce the size and cost of the book.

5143 Cross Reference Entries

Cross reference entries have been totally omitted from the classified part i.e. from Chapter 52.

5144 Book Index Entries

Collaborator entries and particularly joint-author-entries and editor entries and series entries are omitted from the alphabetical part i.e. from Chapter 53.

5145 Cross Reference Index Entries

So also Cross Reference Index Entries of all kinds have been omitted in most cases from the same part.

INTRODUCTION

5146 Class Number Entries

However, Class Number Entries have been given not only for the Main but also for the derived composite classes, instead of taking advantage of the economy that would have resulted if the class numbers had been given only for the fundamental constituent classes as prescribed in the Classified catalogue code.

The result of these changes is:

- (1) that the ultimate classes occurring in the book are all indexed;
- (2) each type of reference book, enumerated in section 5115 gets a consolidated entry, showing all the classes of knowledge for which that type of reference books exist; and
- (3) each book gets only one added entry of the type of book-index entry viz. author entry, beside the main entry.

515 Sources

The present world situation has prevented the fulfilment of the original intention to make the list of books far fuller and to examine each book personally by a visit to the chief national libraries of Europe and America, in view of the comparatively poor collection available in India. However, it was decided to keep to the publishing programme of the Association by confining the present edition to those titles that are available in India and those that can be taken from published bibliographies and particularly from the volumes constituting the Subject index of the catalogue of the British Museum Library, Mudge's Guide to reference books and the volumes of the English catalogue. The result has been that this is, in a sense, a provisional draft of the book. The experience gained in compiling it has been of value however in two ways. If circumstances are favourable after the restoration of peace a fuller revised edition can be brought out at greater leisure. Investigation in foreign national libraries will then be more purposeful, directed and economical. Secondly, some clarification has been obtained in the great undertaking, that lies ahead of us, to bring out a comprehensive Tamil bibliography in about five volumes.

INTRODUCTION

516 Conclusion

Mention must be made of the large ground that has yet to be covered in India in the production of reference books and bibliographies. A statistical analysis of the situation has been attempted elsewhere.* We shall conclude by repeating the appeal made at the end of that analysis: Our international civic conscience should feel hurt to benefit ourselves solely by the one-way flow of bibliographical and reference literature from foreign lands into India. When one advocates a healthy swadesi spirit in this affair and the replacement of "Made in England" and "Made in America" brands by "Made in India" ones, we hope that it will not be attributed to any narrowness in us, but to the healthy desire that we should not always be receiving but that we should also give and thus advance our reputation in the world of learning.

It would be in the fitness of things if Indian librarians endeavour to bring out reference books and bibliographies on all aspects of Indology. Nobody else can do equal justice to them.

e.g.—Indian agriculture, Ayurveda, Siddha and Unani medicines, Indian literature and linguistics, Vedic religion, Hinduism, Jainism, Buddhism, Muhammadanism, Sikkism, Indian philosophy, Indian education, Indian geography, Indian history, Indian economics, Indian sociology, and Indian law.

Now that Indians have resumed taking part in extending the boundaries of knowledge in positive sciences, it is high time that Indian librarians set about compiling bibliographies of fields like Theory of Numbers, Raman Effect and the Natural Sciences and of individuals like Bose, Raman and Ramanujan.

CHAPTER 53

ALPHABETICAL INDEX TO THE BIBLIOGRAPHY

I

This index gives the following in a single alphabetical sequence:

1. Names of classes of knowledge with their class numbers ;

e.g. Accounting X:87

2. Headings or the first words of the names of periodical publications with their Class Numbers ;

e.g. Aarskatalog 14:1573mM93

3. Names of authors of books with their Call Numbers, when not more than one book has the same author ;

e.g. Aa 75962k 112A.1-21

4. Names of authors and some indication of titles, in an indented position, when two or more books have the same author ;

e.g. Abd al Karim

Ang.Pers. P111:J4k 164B9

Kitabel V46:74:Pk 28E2

5. First words of titles of books with their Call Numbers when they are not of personal or corporate authorship.

e.g. Abhidana P157:4k 157A2

II

Wherever possible entries are consolidated. Suitable indenting indicates such consolidation. The entry under "Abstracts," is an example :

1. The first line "Abstracts," which has no number against it, indicates consolidation ;

2. the second is a cross reference entry ;

3. the third is the entry for a periodical whose first word is "Abstracts" and the later significant words are "Science pubns." Its class number is Aam73:N28 ;

4. the fourth line "theses" initiates a further consolidation and stands for "Abstracts of theses"; and

ALPHABETICAL INDEX TO THE BIBLIOGRAPHY

5. the fifth to the seventh lines are entries for the abstracts of theses of different universities with their respective Class Numbers.

III

1. If two or more authors have the same surname, they are distinguished by the addition of their abbreviated forenames.

e.g. Abbot (C.C.) O:6Loga G6
(E.) O:1K88k A (P.) Be *

2. Otherwise forenames are omitted.

e.g. Abrahams P12:4k G51

3. In exceptional cases where two authors have the same surname and the same initials, they are distinguished by expanding the initials to a suitable extent.

e.g. Jones (Ben. E) B26u73a F6
(Ber. E.) M95k E1

IV

When the titles of two or more books without personal or corporate authors have the same first word, their entries are consolidated by giving a second word and indenting it.

e.g. Abhidana P157:4k 157A2
ratnamala LA:66k 31B1

V

To facilitate reference, form headings like the following have been opened :

(1) atlas (2) bibliographical periodical (3) bibliography (4) bibliography of bibliographies (5) bibliography of individuals (6) biography (7) catalogue (8) concordance (9) dictionary (10) encyclopaedia (11) formula (12) Gazetteer (13) guide (14) list (15) statistics (16) tables (17) terms and (18) yearbook.

Under each such form heading, the classes which have attracted reference books in that form have been arranged in an alphabetical sequence with their class numbers shown against them.

VI

To facilitate location in the classified part, inclusive class numbers are printed in the ends of the head-lines of the pages of chapter 52 i.e., of the classified part and the pagination is shown at the bottom of the pages.

The Five Laws of Library Science

By

S. R. RANGANATHAN, M.A., L.T., F.L.A.

SOME OPINIONS

The book is lovely, the author's enthusiasm for his vocation is infectious.—Library Association record.

Would recommend this book to all librarians, who will find many valuable hints to the proper administration of a library, to library committee men.—The Librarian and book world.

He is to be congratulated on his most interesting book. It is the work of an educationist as well as of a librarian.—Times literary supplement.

He has exhibited a wealth of learning, a mastery of detail, a fine sense of humour and a polished style.—Journal of oriental research.

A volume which to the book-lover is more interesting than a thriller, more enlightening than a text-book.—The Madras mail.

The work ..... contains a seventy-page rapid survey of library conditions all over the world.—American Library Association.

The book is written in an exceptionally fascinating and lucid style ..... from the beginning to the end very stimulating and straightforward ..... the book is quite accurate in fact.—The Modern librarian.

In his book which seeks to reduce and relate all the principles and practice of library work to a few fundamental laws, we are glad to recognise a magnificent achievement which ranks as a landmark in the development of librarianship in this country.—The Presidency College magazine.

It is presented from so fresh a point of view, and with so lively an enthusiasm, that it may well lead to a reconsideration of many problems.—The year's work in librarianship.

I find it very interesting to read and I am bringing it to the notice of the Directors of Public Instruction in other Provinces.—I Commissioner with the Government of India.

The Colon Classification

By

S. R. RANGANATHAN, M.A., L.T., F.L.A.

SOME OPINIONS

All who are interested in synthetic classification will find this the best recent exercise in it. It has an admirable scheme for arranging the Indian literatures, the fullest I know.—The year's work in librarianship.

It is universally interesting as a study of an original kind in classification method ..... Certainly the colon scheme is remarkable for its analysis of the many relations of subjects, and students should be acquainted with this new and interesting general classification.—In the Introduction to library classification, 1935, by W. C. Berwick Sayers.

It is an extremely clever scheme ..... The result is almost perfect.—Library Association record.

The scheme is both elastic and comprehensive, while at the same time providing for sensible variations to meet local circumstances.—Nature.

Mr. Bliss's suggestion that "the system is well worth study by those who contemplate constructive developments in bibliographic classification" places Mr. Ranganathan in his proper niche of fame as essentially the classifier's classifier.—Library Association record.

The basis of the work is relation—the bearing of one topic on another, the aspects of a subject, the forms and modes of presentation of subject-matter ..... Precise and well-worded rules are given regarding the formation of class numbers ..... Many works of Sanskrit literature and others in the fields of Hindu Philosophy and Religion are listed in a systematic order, thus illustrating both the correct titles of these works and their relationship to one another.—The library journal.

The author deserves to be congratulated on his excellent performance. The book ought to find a place in every library, however small.—Current

The Classified Catalogue Code

By

S. R. RANGANATHAN, M.A., L.T., F.L.A.

SOME OPINIONS

This book embodies the very wide experience of Mr. Ranganathan and is a notable contribution to the technique of ..... library training.—W. Erlam Smith.

It is a book of considerable value ..... The method of handling various types of books is elaborately dealt with ..... Card technique is fully dealt with and considerable value attaches to the chapters on oriental transliteration and the rendering of Hindu and Muhammadan names.—Library Association record.

This book will take a very high rank among publications dealing with the technical and practical aspects of library work. For the first time, we believe, does such a work come from the pen of an Indian.—United India and Indian States.

The Classified Catalogue Code, by Mr. S. R. Ranganathan, is the fourth of a useful series of publications of the Madras Library Association. The rules for the indexing of books and periodicals have been dealt with in detail.—Current science.

The transliteration codes for Indian languages and the rules for the indexing of Indian names will both be of considerable service. Then again the rules for dealing with the cases in Sanskrit literature of authors writing under different names, and the opposite trouble of different writers using the same name will help librarians who will have to deal with this class of literature.—Library world.

Another strong feature of the book is the section dealing with periodical publications.—The Madras mail.

You too have brought your classification in relationship with your system for your classified catalogue. The classified form of subject-catalogue seems likely to have a new development. I regard the dictionary catalogue as a blunder in the development of the economics of libraries.—H. E. Bliss.

Recommended for purchase in all schools and colleges by the Director of Public Instruction, Madras, in his Proceedings No. 613-G. 34, dated 6th April, 1934.

Library Administration

By

S. R. RANGANATHAN, M.A., L.T., F.L.A.

SOME OPINIONS

The abundant industry, learning and initiative which Mr. Ranganathan has given in the past ten years to librarianship in India must have been of the greatest interest to the British librarian ..... If Ranganathan completes the series he will have been the world's most prolific writer on librarianship ..... The book may be commended as a remarkable example of the collecting, arranging and exposition of routine detail, in which sight is not lost of the larger issues.—Library Association record.

The whole forms an extremely comprehensive and careful work and ..... English librarians will find the book of real interest and assistance to them.—Library world.

It should be of real use to Indian librarians who wish to bring their libraries up to the best modern standards of management.—Times literary supplement.

It makes an important contribution to the study of administration in general ..... It is not difficult to appreciate the fact that Mr. Ranganathan has here devised a simple but powerful method of constructive analysis which will leave no corner of a subject unexplored ..... He offers many shrewd observations of general interest and he is not afraid to hit straight from the shoulder ..... This is certainly not a book for popular consumption but is one which the administrator should have constantly at his elbow, for it is a mine of ideas which should help him in his exalted calling.—The Madras mail.

The book is a masterly analysis of the librarian's craft.—The Hindu.

The well-known author presents the subject with a thorough mastery of detail and a judicious combination of the fruits of his extensive studies and valuable experience in the field which he has made his own.—Mysore economic journal.

If the methods described in this book are scrupulously followed our libraries will save lot of labour and money which has been and is being wasted on account of most unsystematic and unscientific work.—The Mahratta.

Prolegomena to Library Classification

By

S. R. RANGANATHAN, M.A., L.T., F.L.A.

SOME OPINIONS

Constitutes perhaps the most comprehensive statement of principles yet published ..... Altogether a book to be pondered carefully by all those classifiers who have already safely crossed Jordan's swelling flood.—The Library Association record.

The book is the philosophical dissertation of a mathematician and scholar ..... The refreshing and lucid style and the lively enthusiasm of the man himself make the book most readable ..... The book is a definite contribution to the literature of the field. The School of Library Science of Madras University teaches a great deal more of the pure theory of classification than any school in the United States.—The library journal.

In many respects it is original. The author combines the culture of India with the scholarship of England ..... There is much of value to the student in Ranganathan's penetrating and intelligent discussion..... In some post graduate course a degree might well be earned by a reconstructive study of these canons.—The library quarterly.

A quite substantial treatise ..... Is a valiant attempt at a restatement of theory and practice ..... Mr. Ranganathan has made his contemporaries breathless in their effort to keep pace with his industry and ingenuity. His "Five Laws of Library Science" and his now well-known "Colon Classification" would seem enough work for one man to have done, but, upon the principles enumerated in the first of these, he has proceeded, single-handed, to re-write Library administration, cataloguing and now classification ..... His canons occupy 62 reasoned pages in their enunciation and there are 28 of them ..... The remainder of this most interesting work is a comparative study of classification schemes, done quite fairly.—The year's work in librarianship, 1937.

The first part of this book expounds the general theory of classification ..... Then follows an analysis of the principles of knowledge classification, exhibiting its special canons. Next comes the theory of classification as applied to books and finally a critical comparison of the colon and other systems of library classification ..... The book is a valuable contribution to a study which lies at the root of all scientific arrangement and the principles elucidated therein could be developed and applied to every phase of thought.—The Hindu.

Recommended for purchase in all colleges and public libraries by the Director of Public Instruction, Madras, in his Proceedings, R. C. No. 2755-G 37, dated 20th January, 1938.

Theory of Library Catalogue

By
S. R. RANGANATHAN, M.A., L.T., F.L.A.

SOME OPINIONS

Mr. Ranganathan has given us a most challenging, thought-provoking book, and Indian librarianship should count itself fortunate that it has among it a man of his ability and insight. It is one of those occasional professional books that are a delight to read and fascinating to ponder over.—Library Association record.

Rao Saheb Ranganathan is one of the foremost Librarians in the country to-day ; he is one of the two individuals who have placed India on the Library map of the world. His contributions to librarianship are always eagerly awaited and carefully studied ..... Rao Saheb Ranganathan deserves our thanks for this excellent restatement of cataloguing principles. He has brought side by side for comparison and criticism the cataloguing theories of Cutter, Mann, Sharp, Quinn and the Anglo-American Code, criticised these wherever necessary and has given us a treatise worthy of a great librarian.—The times of India.

In the present work he examines the theoretical foundations of cataloguing practice and, in particular, compares in detail the classified with dictionary type of catalogue, to the advantage of the former. The book is written with that careful logic and comprehensive grasp of detail to which we have become accustomed in Mr. Ranganathan's writing.
—The Madras mail.

This is a substantial contribution to the technique of cataloguing..... The urgent need for the revision of the A. A. Code and Cutter's Rules is abundantly brought home ..... It expounds all the fundamental principles in an original, learned and scientific manner.—The Hindu.

This somewhat difficult task he has accomplished with success. The realistic study which Rao Saheb Ranganathan has attempted in this book will prove of immense use to the librarians in general ; the technicalities of the subject have been explained with great lucidity and with profuse illustrations. One cannot but read it with admiration for the completion of a stupendous study of detail, and for an exposition always orderly and clear.—The modern librarian.

Of this prolific writer's books this is probably the most comprehensive with regard to its subject, and it is penetrating too, as the others have been. It will, we think, reward careful study.—Organization of knowledge in libraries by Henry Evelyn Bliss.

Recommended for purchase in all colleges and public libraries by the Director of Public Instruction, Madras, in his Proceedings No. 3343-G. 38, dated 24th January, 1939.

SOME OPINIONS

I have found this present volume stimulating and wholly delightful.—
Sir Maurice Guyer.

This is a whale of a book, and a most interesting one. It is a work, too, not only considerable in size, but full of qualities. All things in library work, even the most elementary notions and processes, are reduced as it were to a system of philosophy and all are treated with a gentle and yet profound seriousness ..... The writing is attractive ..... We also think that every lover of libraries will find something in it to increase his love.—The library world.

The book is finely philosophical as well as severely practical and will be of interest not only to professional librarians but to all students accustomed to use a library ..... A unique feature of the book, and one that must recommend it even to persons who are unconnected with libraries, is the treatment of a number of case studies, many of them humorous, to illustrate the topics. The book reveals an original outlook, independent thinking and a steady judgment in the selection and the presentation of details. Its refreshing individuality is seen, for example, in the attack on the system of lectures.—Memoirs of the Madras Library Association,

The Indian library world is proud of this prolific writer. The work is a notable contribution to the literature on Library Science. The authors' thinking is almost everywhere rigorous and clear and the evidence of care and enthusiasm lavished on the book is unmistakable. The work is indeed by far the best outline of the subject available.—The modern librarian.

The general reader will find in it abundant instruction as to how to use the reference books, how to benefit by the aid of the reference staff and how to look upon the library as his friend for solution of his many perplexities. It is a book useful both to the public and professional librarians, who will find in it a masterly analysis of the immense range of reference literature in Indology and oriental philosophy. The treatment of the subject bibliography is unique and quite different from the one we find in the books of Schneider, Esdaile, and Peddie.—The Hindu.

It deals with the fundamental principles and ramifications of reference service, and comes from the pen of a librarian, who is decidedly the best authority on the subject.—Mahratta.

Recommended for purchase in all colleges and public libraries by the Director of Public Instruction, Madras, in his Proceedings No. L, Dis. 8837/41, dated 10th September, 1941.
